CITY OF JAIPUR.

The Center of Native Civilization in

From the St. James Gazette. India is the land of picturesque cities, but it is universally conceded that Jaipur -the Jeypore of our old-fashioned geographical books-is the most beautiful of them all. It is the metropolis of the state of the same name, this being one of the tributary native provinces in the important territory of Rajputana. The name of Rajputana is famous throughout India. It represents a magnificent cluster of states lying in the northwest, between Punjab and the central states. Each of these twenty Rajput states enjoys its own autonomy, with a separate chief, to-gether with a British resident.

The state of Jaipur covers an area of nearly 15,000 square miles. Though its name conveys little meaning to the average Englishman, it is quite as important a district as Wales. Holland, Belgium or Roumania. The population now reaches about 2,500,000. Of these some are pure Rajputs of the old dominant caste; others of various inferior castes; some are Mohammedans, and some belong to the curious Jain sect, whose shrines are usually placed on the crests of the highest hills, and who form a very wealthy and influen-

Native civilization in India is at its very best in Jalpur. That city is the commercial capital and banking center for all the Rajput states. Most of the exchange for the whole of the great Rajputana province in transaction. is transacted here. The lovely city is one of India's most exquisite show places, which astonishes every visitor by its superlative beauty, but it is a veritable hive of indus-try. The people, clad in all the colors of N.W., IN CLOSE PROXIMITY the rainbow, all day ply their work in the shops and sheds. On the sidewalk men TO PENNSYLVANIA AVE- are being shaved, and dyers come and wave flaring strips of green, red or blue cloth in the sunshine. Women with their spinning MARKET DISTRICT AND A
WHICH PROPERTY IS BUT SELDOM OFFFRED AT PUBview of all who may choose to look on; while monkeys sport on the roofs, and the teeming bird-life for which India is so famous adds to the animation of the scene. Flocks of parrots, pigeons and crows flit about every gable. It is, however, the perennial sunrise and sunset colors in which it is steeped which impart its peculiar fascination to Jaipur. It is the coral city of India, flushed all over with soft, yet brilliant, rose tints. This extraordinary city presents an incomparable aspect. It won an extravagant eulogium from Sir Edwin Arnold. He was especially delighted with that Hawai Mahal—"Hall of the Winds"—or nine-storied Zenana, which forms the frontispiece of the maharajah's palace. It is indeed a vision of daring and dainty loveliness, with its rosy masonry and delicate overhanging balconies and latticed windows, soaring tier above tier in fanciful architecture of pyramidal form. Other grand buildings, besides the splendid white marble palace, are the maharajah's college for a thousand boys, and the museum, one of the noblest institutions of the kind in In the menagerie, maintained at the costume—something like that worn by Queen Victoria's Hindoo retainers—to an elaborate state livery worn on ceremonial occasions. They are given, fortnightly, alternate terms of duty, and are lodged, as are all the czar's male domestics, in a special building away from the palace.

Family of Physicians.

Lister who have been eminent in medical ucated at Eton and Cambridge, was a physician to Elizabeth and James I and his younger brother, Sir Matthew, filled the same office to Anne of Denmark, James I and Charles I. Martin Lister, son of Sir Martin, and nephew of Sir Matthew, was a famous zoologist and second physician to Queen Anne. Lord Lister is now seventy-five. His wife was a daughter of the late Prof. Symne of Edinburgh, a surgeon of the first eminence. She died a few years ago. But for Lord Lister's great discovery in 1867, known as the antiseptic treatment, the operation of King Edward could not nossibly have been attempted. Lord Lister. possibly have been attempted. Lord Lister has the distinction of being the first medical peer.

ON THE RIVER FRONT SELECTION OF BULBS

CANNING FACTORIES IN OPERA- A WAY TO OBTAIN GOOD EFFECTS TION ON THE RIVER.

Schooner Fouls Steamer Kent-Excursion Season Closes-River News -General and Personal.

A leaden-colored two-masted schooner came into port yesterday evening under sail, laden with canned tomatoes from the lower Potomac for the dealers here. All the tomato canning factories along the river are working full time and the output of canned fruit and vegetables will be very large.

The oyster-packing factories about Kinsale and on the Rappahannock river are preparing for work and will begin operations as soon as oysters become plentiful. The Virginia canned oysters find ready sale in the west and north, away from the lake and tidewater regions of the country. Only the smaller oysters, that would bring small prices in the market here and at Baltimore, are put up in cans for shipment. The fish market, at the wharf foot of 11th street, was a somewhat more busy place this morning than it has been for several days, the supply of fish on hand being am-ple and the demand quite brisk. Gray trout was the main stock on hand today and sold well. Prices were, for white perch, 10 to 12c. per pound; bluefish, 6c. per pound; flounders, 3c. per pound; pan rock, 6 to 10c. per pound; medium rock, 10½ to 12c. per pound; boiling rock, 15 to 18c. per pound; sturgeon, 10 to 12c. per pound; Spanish mackerel, 12 to 15c, per pound; small cat-fish, 10 to 15c, per bunch; large catfish, 20 to 30c. per bunch; small white perch, 5 to 25c. per bunch; eels, 3 to 5c. each; gray trout, $5 to $6 per barrel; butterfish, $4 to $5 per barrel; spot, $3 to $5 per barrel; hard crabs, $1 to $2 per barrel, and clams, 40c. per hundred.

The demand for watermelons at the 11th street wharf has been excellent for the past two days, and nearly all the stock on hand has been sold out. Two boats came in last night, bringing about 3,000 melons from the lower river, and they were selling at slightly advanced prices, culls bringing from $2 to $4 per hundred; primes, $6 to $8 per hundred, and selects $12 to $18 per hundred. About 500 bushels of oysters were on sale at the oyster wharf this morning at from 45c. to 50c. per bushel. The demand was quite light, though the oysters were of fair size and good quality. They came mainly from the beds on the Potomac near Blackistone's Island. As the two-masted schooner Emily E.

Burton was shifting her berth at the wharf of the Keystone Plaster Company, at the foot of 6th street, yesterday, the flying jib-boom of the schooner fouled the steamer Kent, lying at the adjoining wharf, and broke several awning stanchions and did some other minor damage.

Of General Interest.

The excursion season to Colonial Beach closed with the trip of the steamer Arrowsmith a day or two ago, and after Wednesday next the steamer Harry Randall will for the present season drop Piney Point and St. George's Island from her schedule. The hotels at Colonial Beach are closing, and before the middle of this month all the guests will have returned home. Barge No. 18 of the Consolidation Comis at Georgetown having some repair work done to her boiler and pumps before loading coal for a trip up the Atlantic coast. A large sand scow of John Miller's is hauled out at Bennett's boat yard to find a leak and for caulking. The scow was damaged by being run into by a passing boat while lying in the James Creek canal about ten days ago. The little power launch Palmetto, owned by parties here, came into port yesterday evening in tow of the tug Maryland, having become disabled down the river. She will be repaired and made ready for servesterday evening Capt. Balley Reed has been transferred from the steamer Arrowsmith, which has steamer Harry Randall as first officer.

Mr. Walter C. Cox has been appointed assistant keeper of the Tangill Island lighthouse, in place of Mr. James O. Casey, resigned.

Seven Foot Knoll light has tendered his resignation to the United States lighthouse Mr. Thos. Ballenger is at Old Point and Virginia Beach, to remain several days. The schooner Oakland is at Alexandria with a full load of cord wood from the lower river for Wm. A. Smoot & Co.

The schooner W. P. Snow is at the wharf of Forsberg & Murray unloading a cargo of pine lumber from the James river.

The Margaret T. Ward has arrived in port from the Maine ice fields with a full cargo of about 1,600 tons of ice for the American Ice Company.

FOX FARM IN MAINE.

Owner Raises the Black Variety of Reynard-Skins Bring High Prices.

From the Brooklyn Eagle. Elijah Norton of Bangor, Me., finds foxes a more profitable crop than potatoes or hay, and so he long ago quit planting and hoeing and mowing, and is now devoting his entire attention to raising the sharp-eyes and bushy-tailed little animals, whose fur is in great demand always and everywhere. When Norton began raising foxes it was an experiment; now he has the business established on a highly profitable basis, and his sunny hillside farm on the bank of the Piscataquis is known as the best-paying piece of land in Maine.

The Norton fox farm is not the first in bor, for years before the Dover enterprise was thought of.
When Norton got ready to go into the fox business he visited the Heron Island farm, and one on Prince Edward Island, in the has succeeded. Being an old hunter and knowing the ways of foxes, Norton at the outset recognized the fact that to be healthy, and thus profitable, his stock must be contented, and to inable, his stock must be contented, and to in-sure that happy condition he so constructed and arranged his inclosure as to dispell the idea of captivity—which foxes cannot en-dure. He built a fence sixteen feet high, of a heavy and specially woven wire, to keep the foxes in and to keep other animals out. Six inclosures thus formed cover about one and a half acres, and in each of them is a kennel, built of wood and set deep into the earth, serving as a nursery and as a den for the foxes in winter. At first a few of the foxes escaped by burrowing down under the fence, but Norton stopped this by carrying the wire down four to eight feet to the solid ledge. The whole farm has been allowed to grow up with rank grass and weeds, so that it resembles the native haunts of the fox in the wildwood, and Norton's stock does not seem to realize that it is living in captivity. A stranger visiting the place sees at first only a rank growth of weeds and underbrush, the foxes all scurrying to cover at his approach, but on looking closely one may detect here and there a pair of bright eyes peeping out at him from the tangle. The Norton foxes are as wary and alert as ever their ancestors were in the wilds of Maine, Canada, Ohio and Ataska for a likely and a likely and Ataska for a likely and Atask their ancestors were in the wilds of Maine, Canada, Ohio and Afaska, from all of which regions the colony has been recruited.

On the farm are common red foxes from the woods of Maine; blue foxes from Alaska, silver grays from Prince Edward Island and blacks from Ohio. The reds are the commonest and least valued of foxes; blues are worth more: but the silver grays and are worth more; but the silver grays and blacks are the aristocrats. As a matter of fact, the black and the silver gray are the same breed, a silver gray being a black with a sprinkling of gray hairs. The black fox pelt is among the most valuable of furs, fine specimens frequently bringing $300 to $600, while in several instances as high as $1,000 to $1,200 has been paid. Ordinarily a black fox pelt is quoted at $200 to $250.

IN COLOR COMBINATIONS.

Flowers That Can Add Much Beauty to Garden Schemes-They Bloom Early.

From the New York Tribune. The lover of flowers is guilty of a mistake for which she is likely to suffer later if she neglects to add bulbs to the other attractions of her house and garden. There is no other class of plants that can be more successfully grown by the amateur gardener, nor one of which the flowers afford greater satisfaction. Between the vanishing of the snow and the first appearance of the early agnuals there is always an ugly interregnum of brown lawns and empty flower beds. Then begins that brilliant procession of the bulbs, beginning with the first crocus and ending only when the gay pageantry of hyacinth, iris, narcissus and tulip merges into the fuller beauty and brightness of the early summer.

Iris and Narcissus. Then, too, besides their beauty, what a wealth of romantic and historic interest clings about them! Iris, hyacinth, amaryllis, narcissus what pictures of ancient loveliness and poetry the mere names conjure up. The mind is immediately filled with nymphs, dryads, gods and goddesses, and then, to come down to comparatively modern times, what associations has the tulip. By way of Venice and Vienna it found its way into Holland in the sfxteenth century, and the rich and luxury-loving Dutchmen fell slaves to it on the spot. They say that some tulip bulbs were sent to an Antwerp merchant, who had them boiled for dinner under the belief that they were some new and choice variety of onion. But the Hollanders knew too much to make But the Hollanders knew too much to make that mistake. Year by year the flower waxed in stately splendor, growing more acclimatized to the lush fields and sleepy dykes of its foster country, until in the seventeenth century it had become not only a fad, but a passion, a cult. A rare bulb sold for a king's ransom; men mortgaged their houses and women pawned their jewels to buy. There was a tulip market just as there was a money market, and tulips as there was a money market, and tilips went up and down, and were quoted like so many stocks and bonds. It was nothing more nor less than a gamble, in which admiration of the flower and interest in its cul-ture were subsidiary considerations. The 'tulipomania' it has been christened, and while it lasted it raged with a virulence hard to appreciate now. The Jersey Lily. Or take the so-called Jersey lily, really the Guernsey lily, of delicate beauty and spotless reputation. It is a native of Japan and came quite by accident to make its home in the Channel Islands. Had it not been for the cruel winds and waves that wrecked an English ship bound home from Japan on the biting reefs of the channel t might have remained unknown, except to oriental tradition. The ship went to pieces her wreckage and cargo drifting and floating hither and yon, and probably no one gave a thought to the brown little onionlike things bobbing about in the foam of the breakers. Years afterward, in the reign of Charles II, a governor of the island who was something of a botanist was struck with the beauty of a flower blooming in great profusion in the sandy reaches along the shore. He sent a few of the bulbs to England, where the lily was taken up and cultivated, soon becoming a favorite there as well as on the continent. Now the spikes of the golden-hearted flowers are worth many hundreds of pounds in cold cash annually to the people of Guernsey. for, though the flower will live and will blossom elsewhere nowhere-not even in Jersey-does it attain to such perfection as on the warm sea sands of Guernsey.

October Planting.

bulbs for their spring gardens so early as ly always postpone planting until the middle of October, for a twofold reason. Plant too early and the plants may come up just in time to be mipped and chilled by a be-lated snowstorm, and it is possible to have only the labor for the pains. But defer the operation unduly and the formation of the new roots will be checked by the too early approach of winter. The postponed growth must be resumed next spring, and that in-terferes with the flowering, and one gets only imperfect, sturted blooms. Bulbs are greedy+ plants. They crave a deal of food, and it must be good, rich food, too. Even roses, the gluttons of the garden, are scarcely more exacting over their table. But the two call for different fare. For bulbs choose a sandy loam, light and susceptible to the warning influence of the meager spring sun, with open drainage. Dig up the bed, rake level, then lay the bulbs on top in the positions in which it is desired to keep them. Then with a trowel one may expeditiously go through them, making holes three or four inches deep and Crocuses will need to be planted two inches apart; hyacinths, six; tulips (for massing), two. Once planted, they require little attention—this is one of their great charms. The first crocus-or it may be a snowdrop-makes formal declaration of the opening of the floral year.

RICHNESS OF NOME FIELD.

Firmly Established.

Greatness of the Gold Deposits Now

From the Seattle Post-Intelligencer. It is not at all surprising to be told by those familiar with the facts that the gold Maine, for foxes had been successfully bred by a man on Heron Island, Boothbay Har- equal that of the last two seasons put tooutput of Nome this year will probably gether. This is what everybody believed who knew anything about the conditions. It has pleased the sensational newspapers man-eating tigers, trapped in the jungles after devouring many an unfortunate stray villager.

Gulf of St. Lawrence, to get points, and also to buy some breeding stock. Then he started in to beat the original fox farmers and he Seattle has outstripped to take the cue and to speak of the gold product of the north as waning. The record of the Klondike, about which exactly the same things were said. is there. The record of Alaska's gold output is there. The record of Nome will take care of itself.

This is the first season that there has been any opportunity whatever to measure rationally the possibilities of Nome as a gold producer. The first summer was one of a mad rush by inexperienced people to get into the country, believing that all they had to do was to shovel up free gold cn the beach. They tumbled over one another, impeded or excluded the real miners and brought back the stories of disappoint-ment and disillusion inseparable from such was done under inconceivable difficulties. There was, worst of all, the judicial wrangle the endless appeal to the courts, the tvine up of some of the best properties, and the check upon prospecting and development by the certainty that the first move must be a lawsuit. There was the worst kind of lawsuit. weather, late spring and early fall, too much ice and too little water. The country was bare of those necessary accessories to mining on a generous scale—water and fuel. A more unfavorable condition for producing gold in large quantities it would be

Now for the first time Nome is in a posi-tion to show what she can do as a gold producer. A strict administration of jus-tice has held down the unruly elements and tice has held down the unruly elements and given certainty to titles. The worthless and the inexperienced element has largely disappeared from the country. Capital has gone there in large quantities. Fuel and water are to be had in abundance, and claims can now be worked there with the advantages available elsewhere. The first result is the announcement that the year's output will probably equal the entire product of the past. The Nome region is about to show, having for the first time an opportunity, what it can do as a gold pro-ducer. We think that the showing will be very satisfactory, and that it will set this down as not only one of the richest, but one of the permanent mining districts
